

LOCAL SLAV WAR

Little Russia in Topeka All Torn Up by Dissensions.

Trouble Rivals That of Montagues and Capulets.

YOUNG ROMEO IS SHOT AT

Instead of Taking Poison as in the "10-20-30" Play.

He Carries His Troubles Over to City Court.

Little Russia—usually the most peaceful of Topeka's foreign districts—is being torn by revolution, feuds and internal troubles. Famous feuds of the south as pre-arranged by industrious novelists, and strife of the mother country, the settlement—Little Russia on the Kaw in North Topeka—is taking elements of each and weaving them together, according to county officials and members of the Topeka police force.

The feuds are usually ended in court and generally are the outgrowth of trouble among the young people of the settlement. The latest trouble with which the little village, with its neat little houses and flower bedded lawns, is witnessing was a fight in court of Topeka before Judge Hugh Fisher today and is between the house of Schaub and the house of Lambrecht and Kloster with the younger members of the families playing the leading roles.

Began Three Months Ago. Trouble among the youth of the families began about three months ago, according to evidence in the court of Topeka this morning, when Katharine Dome, one of the prettiest girls of the village, turned Joe Schaub down cold. Joe was infatuated with the young woman, members of the settlement say. But the smiles of Katharine were not for Joe but for Peter Lambrecht. Constantine Kloster, a friend of Lambrecht, and Adam Dome, brother of the girl, ranged themselves alongside Lambrecht and supported him. John Kipper, John Weiman and Jacob Kahn rallied to the colors of the friend Joe.

A little more than two weeks ago matters came to a crisis. Lambrecht, Kloster and Dome were returning from a musical when someone began to shoot. Several shots startled the little village. The trio, claiming to believe that the shots were for them, appeared the next day in the county attorney's office and told their troubles to Rad Lee, deputy county attorney.

Complaint Sworn Out. The consultation ended with a complaint being sworn out for Wieman, Schaub and Kahn, charging the defendants with threatening to do Kloster, Dome and Lambrecht great bodily harm, with Kloster as complaining witness. The complaint was made by the Lambrecht followers to invoke the law to make Schaub and the followers cease their alleged operations.

The case came to trial this morning. Probably fifty of the residents of Little Russia on the Kaw were present and each had a story to tell on the witness stand. A. J. Bolinger defended the Schaub forces while Rad Lee and J. M. Weisner represented the prosecution. At noon today the case was adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

German and Russ. Mix. Another German-Russian embroglio came to light this morning in police court before Judge R. N. Yates when George Schmidt, booked as a Russian, was arraigned before Judge Yates on a charge of imbibing too much beer and resisting an officer. Schmidt was arrested Thursday evening. Trouble in his case started Wednesday evening. Little Russia was celebrating a wedding. Schmidt, it seems, was master of the key ceremonies. Two members of the party decided Schmidt should not be running things so much to suit himself and started something. Officer Jess. Hill was called into the neighborhood and according to his story attempted to arrest Schmidt. Schmidt's followers rallied and Hill retreated for reinforcements, with a bitten thumb and a bruised body. Later he was flanked by Detective Goff and Police Drivers Porter and Richardson and made another invasion of the village. This time Schmidt was arrested.

They Rushed the Keg. In police court this morning Schmidt pleaded not guilty to the charges and told his side of the story. The party was just lining up to approach a little keg, he claimed, when two members of the party refused to stay in line and rushed the keg, refusing to wait their turn.

CARS IN A CRASH

Topekans Shaken Up in East Side Collision.

Slippery Rails Sent Trolley Beyond All Control.

Several people were shaken up Wednesday afternoon when an Oakland car ran into a Cemetery street car at Hancock and East Sixth streets. The Oakland car was at the top of the Sixth street viaduct, loaded with passengers. The Cemetery car was half a block ahead.

The Oakland car started sliding down the east slope of the viaduct. Street railway officials say that it was not going fast. It injured no one seriously when it crashed into the other car. Many people were standing up at the time in the Oakland car and were thrown down when the crash came. The two cars later completed their schedule and were taken to the car barns for repairs.

The injured were: Mrs. L. G. Hoffman, 475 Sumner street. Hip and leg bruised.

Mrs. W. W. Stewart, 427 Sumner street. Slightly bruised.

E. E. Crouch, 331 Green street. Slightly sprained shoulders.

Mrs. E. A. Goldsmith, 1713 East Crane street. The most seriously injured.

TREAT FOR THE GIRLS

State Journal and Hip Will Entertain Little Ones and Their Dolls.

The little girls of Topeka have a treat in store for them Saturday afternoon at the Hip theater. The manager of the playhouse and the State Journal will be the hosts to every little girl in Topeka who is not yet 12 years old and who brings her doll.

It will not cost the girls a penny to see a good show. All they have to do is to walk past the doorkeeper and show their dolls. The doorkeeper will tip his hat and say: "Walk right in."

Dolls of every kind will be admitted. Roy Crawford says it will be a neutral party. German, French, Italian, Dutch and Spanish dolls will march in right along side of little American dolls.

Tone Plus—Tone Control

You would not get much pleasure out of a piano that could only be played when the loud pedal was down, and there would be no satisfaction in playing it with the soft pedal nailed down all the time, either.

In the same way there is not much pleasure owning a "talking machine" with a fixed volume of tone. Tone control is just as necessary to enjoyment as tone quality.

A convincing example of the triumph of tone plus tone control is this complete and completely inclosed upright Columbia Gramophone.

We'll gladly play this or any other Columbia over to you, or send one to your home, with an outfit of records, on approval.
